BACHELOR OF COMMERCE - JD COMBINED DEGREE PROGRAM (BCOM-JD)

This six-year combined program capitalizes on the strength of the Bachelor of Commerce (BCom) degree offered by Queen's School of Business and the rich business law program offered by Queen's Law.[1]

The BCom/JD degree reduces completion time and tuition by one year for undergraduate students admitted to the BCom degree program at Queen's. Students entering the third year of the Queen's BCom program are eligible to apply through an internal application process at Queen's.

Program Requirements and Structure: https://law.queensu.ca/programs/combined-degrees/bcom (https://law.queensu.ca/programs/combined-degrees/bcom/)

[1] Approved by Queen's University Senate on April 28, 2015.