Overview

The Department of Political Studies at Queen's offers a full curriculum in all areas of political sciences, designed to take you on different and exciting intellectual journeys. You might explore the foundations of early democratic thought, examine integration in the European Union, study how states make the transition to democracy, analyze sources of conflict and cooperation in the international system, investigate trends in voting behaviour, or explore the impact of welfare reforms on single mothers. You will develop critical thinking and writing skills, which are not only useful for a variety of pursuits after graduation, but crucial for citizenship in a democracy.

Departmental Policies

Prerequisites

Upper-level courses in Political Studies have prerequisites, including minimum GPA requirements. Please consult the course descriptions in the Faculty of Arts and Science Calendar for more details.

Studying in French

With prior permission of the instructor, assignments and examinations may be submitted in French.

Advice to Students

Lecture and Seminar Courses

300-level courses are lecture courses. Most 400-level courses are seminars, but some are lecture courses. For further details, please consult the Department of Political Studies homepage (<https://www.queensu.ca/politics/home/>).

Special Study Opportunities

Third Year Abroad

Political Studies students are encouraged to consider taking part in an exchange program in their third year. Students should note that 400-level POLS courses have a minimum GPA in previous POLS courses as a prerequisite. Since courses taken on an exchange program do not contribute towards GPA calculations, students should ensure that their grades are sufficient to satisfy the 400-level prerequisite before embarking on an exchange program. Those students in Joint Honours or Major Plans must take POLS 284 in their second or fourth year at Queen's.

Documents Library

An extensive collection of government documents, which is strongest in Canadian federal, provincial and local government. The international collection of publications of the United Nations and several international agencies is also strong. The Library also has an archive of data, including census data, survey material, etc. The Library is housed in the Stauffer Library (Basement Level).

POLS 441 Gender and International Relations Units: 3.00

This seminar investigates the central place of gender in international relations (IR). It introduces students to gender analysis of global politics, and feminist approaches to IR by interrogating how ideas about masculinity and femininity affect foreign policy, nationalism, international power relations, war, and peace. While the study of IR has long focused on states and their political and economic power in the international system, this class moves between the centres of power and the margins of international politics to see how power flows between gendered bodies and institutions.

Learning Hours: 120 (36 Seminar, 12 Online Activity, 72 Private Study)

Requirements: Prerequisite (Level 4 or above and registration in a POLS Major, Joint Honours, or POPE Plan) and ([POLS 250/3.0 and POLS 350/3.0] or POLS 250/6.0*) and a (minimum GPA of 2.50 on all units in POLS).

Offering Faculty: Faculty of Arts and Science

Course Learning Outcomes:

1. Analyze feminist scholarship of international relations to develop a gendered perspective on issues of war, peace, and foreign policy.
2. Assess and articulate different theories of gender and international relations to distinguish between sex and gender, masculinity and femininity and compare their respective implications in world politics.
3. Demonstrate analytical and communications skills through in-class discussions and the production of essays, presentations, and book reviews.
4. Discuss intersectional feminist questions to evaluate crosscutting power dynamics of international relations.

POLS 598 Internship in Political Studies Units: 3.00

An internship and experiential learning course that allows students to develop practical skills related to their degree by pairing them with local organizations engaged in work related to politics, broadly conceived. Roles may include assisting with the day-to-day tasks of an organization, special projects, event planning, community activism, report writing, and/or other responsibilities. Consult the Political Studies website for further information and instructions on how to apply.

NOTE Students will be given a grade of Pass/Fail for work done.

Learning Hours: 120 (10 Seminar, 20 Individual Instruction, 90 Off-Campus Activity)

Requirements: Prerequisite (Registration in a POLS Major, Joint Honours, or POPE Plan, and 12.0 units in POLS at the 200-level or above and a minimum GPA of 3.00 on all units in POLS) or permission of the Department. Exclusion DEVS 411/3.0.

Offering Faculty: Faculty of Arts and Science

Course Learning Outcomes:

1. Make connections between theoretical concepts related to political studies and practical experiences in the field.
2. Engage in a critically reflective process that advances students' understanding of their skillset (what they bring into the professional environment, what they have gained from their internship, and how they've handled/overcome any challenges).
3. Make connections between how political processes and outcomes in the internship affect the political and social concerns of the community and/or global scale.
4. Articulate how the internship - including their successes, challenges and their contributions - has affected their personal and professional growth and future goals.

Politics, Philosophy, and Economics (PPEC)PPEC 200 Introduction to the Study of Politics, Philosophy, and Economics Units: 3.00

This course will emphasize the analysis of conceptual complementarities, the assessment of arguments, and the application of principles in factual contexts that are the focus of study within the disciplines of Politics, Philosophy, and Economics.

Learning Hours: 120 (24 Lecture, 12 Group Learning, 84 Private Study)

Requirements: Prerequisite 12.0 units from (ECON 110/6.0, [ECON 111/3.0 and ECON 112/3.0], POLS 110/6.0*, [POLS 111/3.0 and POLS 112/3.0], PHIL at the 100-level).

Offering Faculty: Faculty of Arts and Science

Course Learning Outcomes:

1. Explain in words and illustrate with examples basic economic concepts that can have broader political or philosophical dimensions and applications. These concepts could include: comparative advantage; collective action problems; or Pareto efficiency.
2. Distinguish different values relevant to the assessment of economic and political institutions, including: liberty; equality; or wellbeing.
3. Describe and apply different philosophical approaches to these assessments, including consequentialist or rights-based approaches.
4. Formulate arguments appealing to different normative standards (not just prosperity or practicality) for and against contemporary public and social policy proposals, which could include: international trade agreements; labour market regulations; or the creation of unconditional basic income guarantees.
5. Identify and assess positions originating from different ideological and disciplinary perspectives, including positions students may find challenging to support.

PPEC 300 Topics in Politics, Philosophy, and Economics Units: 3.00

This course is devoted to the study of ethical and political aspects of economic institutions. It focuses on practical applications of ideas within the context of contemporary issues, and it will include a diversity of ideological views. NOTE This course is the required third-year core course for the PPEC degree plan, but it is open to other students with the prerequisites.

Learning Hours: 120 (36 Lecture, 36 Online Activity, 48 Private Study)

Requirements: Prerequisite PPEC 200/3.0.

Offering Faculty: Faculty of Arts and Science

Course Learning Outcomes:

1. Distinguish normative from empirical questions, while also recognizing that empirical theories may bring with them normative assumptions.
2. Formulate arguments both for and against contemporary policy proposals by appealing to different normative standards.
3. Identify and think from the perspective of different ideological positions, including positions one rejects.

PPEC 400 Research Seminar in Politics, Philosophy, and Economics Units: 3.00

Politics, Philosophy, and Economics approach problems from discipline specific perspectives, but the questions asked have fundamental similarities. In this course students will be exposed to research methods from all three different disciplines, while completing a research intensive project. Peer review and presentation skills will be emphasized.

Learning Hours: 120 (12 Lecture, 12 Seminar, 12 Group Learning, 84 Private Study)

Requirements: Prerequisite Level 4 or above and registration in the PPEC Specialization Plan and a minimum Plan GPA of 2.60 and permission of the Department.

Offering Faculty: Faculty of Arts and Science

Course Learning Outcomes:

1. Recognize, distinguish, and critique a range of discipline-specific research methods employed in Politics, Philosophy, and Economics.
2. Select a question or topic with a multi-disciplinary dimension for research intensive study.
3. Critique and develop topics and research approaches in small peer review sessions.
4. Analyze and explore the chosen question or topic.
5. Write up and present a synthesis of their research findings.
6. Engage in collaborative peer review and assessment.
